

MAJOR OPERATION FOR POLICE CHIEF

Failing Eyesight Forces Blaine to St. Louis for Treatment

Chief of Police George H. Blaine left Tulsa Sunday evening for St. Louis where he is to undergo a major operation on his eyes. Before he left it was stated that he was barely able to discern objects a few feet from him.

The chief became affected three days ago, according to friends, stating rapidly worse until Saturday afternoon when he consulted a local specialist. The latter gave the startling announcement that he would be totally blind in less than three days' time if an operation was not immediately performed.

Getting affairs straightened as quickly as possible, Chief Blaine Sunday evening, and will undergo an operation as soon as it is possible after reaching St. Louis. It was announced. He was accompanied by several close friends.

Relieved Result of Infection. Although it could not be learned the exact cause of Chief Blaine's blindness, local eye specialists said Sunday it was probably the result of an infection from an unhealed lesion made during an appendicitis operation about four years ago. The pus which had gathered in the infection had possibly affected the optic nerve, it was thought.

An eminent surgeon at St. Louis was recommended by local specialists, who pronounced the operation as extremely delicate and one taking the utmost skill and care. The chief's growing blindness followed close upon the death a few weeks ago of his wife, who died following an operation in a local hospital.

In Chief Blaine's absence J. W. Patton, chief of detectives, will be acting police chief. Although no definite arrangements have yet been made, Night Captain W. R. Wilcox will probably take charge during the night.

REVIVALIST TURNS BIG CROWD AWAY

But he is never still a moment. Right arm outstretched, right foot lifted high, standing so close to the edge of the platform that he enfolded shivers with apprehension in his people over, he hurries his invective against the devil and all that is his. He talks all over the platform. He kneels upon it, pounds it, jumps on it. He treats the pulpit the same way. Last night he ripped open his collar, pulled off his tie. He was in fighting trim. A cold shiver ran through him. He fought more than the usual amount of hours.

"That's all right, sister," said Mr. Sunday last night to a woman sitting just in front of him and who had been applauding noisily after the rest of the crowd had ceased. "That's all right. Let me talk now."

Woman Interrupts Sermon. The woman subsided for the moment. Presently, with no verbal provocation and with no support from the audience, she began to clap loudly. Sunday stopped talking and looked down at her, perplexed. An usher, sitting near, got up and asked her to be quiet. Sunday only she arose and defied him. Sunday intervened.

"Let her alone!" he said. The woman sat down. The evangelist resumed his sermon. In a moment she again burst forth in loud and enthusiastic hand clapping. Several times she walked over to her and quickly asked her to leave. In a high, excited voice, she proclaimed:

Ushers Are Defied. "Not I won't leave! And you just leave me alone. Don't you dare touch me!" as one of them extended a hand to invite her to the aisle. "There's only one man in this world that I'd let touch me. The National Guard couldn't make me leave this place if I didn't want to!"

There was dead silence. The audience craned its neck to see the cause of the disturbance. Many people half arose in their seats. Presently one of the members of Sunday's party, walked down to where the woman was sitting.

"Let her alone, Pete," said Sunday. "That's all right." "I'll bring the pope into this!" the woman shrieked.

The usher, looking nonplussed, took her seat. Sunday said to her: "Now, be still, sister, and let me talk."

She shook her finger at him and her hysterical screams carried all over the building.

"That's all right, Billy! That's all right. I feel sorry for you, Billy!" Sunday smiled, and went on at it again. But talking was made difficult by the sporadic outbursts below him. In a few moments the tall man coated figure of a policeman appeared through the crowd.

As he came where she was sitting, the woman sprang up and faced him. She is slight and fair haired. The color flamed in her face. Pulling out a long and murderous looking hairpin she defied him to put her out. The policeman's face was as red as he was grim as he reached for her arm. She jabbed at him viciously. Sunday said again to let her alone—he'd get along all right. But a great roar went up from the crowd.

"Put her out!" With the assistance of several others the protesting woman was led from the building by the officer. From outside came shrill cries of "Hail, Billy!"

Sunday grinned. "When the pope come in," he said, "I have nothing to say."

Caused Other Disturbances. It was said that similar actions on the part of the woman had caused disturbances in other meetings here in Tulsa.

It is tribute to Sunday that the incident, disturbing as it was, was not a failure.

Mortuary

Funeral services for Miss Anita Donovan, who died at Roswell, N. M., November 3, will be held at 9:30 o'clock this morning from the Holy Family church. Burial will be at Holy Family cemetery.

Mortimer Funeral services for May Evaline Mortimer, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Mortimer, 1519 South Cheyenne avenue, were held from the residence last Thursday.

but an incident, nothing more, so far as its effect on the meeting was concerned. In five minutes the audience had forgotten all about it. They were much more interested in what the evangelist was saying about the various strata of society. He paid his respects to all of them last night—from "these low-down tips of perdition, bootleggers" to the society woman who kisses her pug dog because she's not to have any thing to love—and I don't call that something," said Sunday.

Sunday's sermon last night is printed in full elsewhere in The World this morning.

Public Reception Today. At 10:30 this morning Sunday will meet all Tulsa people who wish the privilege of shaking his hand. A public reception will be held for him at the First Baptist church. There will be no other meetings today.

Monday is the rest day for the members of the Sunday party. Thursday night the evangelist will preach a sermon especially for students, both of the University of Tulsa and the high school. Friday night he will talk on a subject apropos of the day—on "Oh, Day Safety First" and Sunday "First on your knees" suit when you come Friday night," he said. "If I don't skin that bunch of low-lives, rotten hearted, cowardly, God-forsaken I. W. W.'s and bloody law-breaking holdovers—ugh!" and he gave a wide and swift imaginary kick that was plain he would intend to hit directed at the subjects of his sermon. Friday night they themselves personal.

There will be services every afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and every night at 7:30.

PRE-WAR MEAT PRICES

Average Wholesale Quotations on Beef Ranch 1914 Level—Backers Say Production Is Normal.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—The average wholesale price of carcass beef is now back to the level prevailing in 1914, according to figures made public today in a review of the meat and live stock situation during October, issued by the Institute of American Meat Packers.

The average wholesale price of carcass beef in 1914 approximated 12 cents, the report says, while at the end of October, 1921, it was between 11½ and 12 cents. Some grades, however, are selling higher and others lower, it is stated.

A normal volume of production has been maintained in the packing industry for the first nine months of 1921, as compared with the first nine months of 1918, says the statement.

Chain-Weighted Body Found in Small Creek

OCEAN GROVE, N. J., Nov. 6.—Police are trying to solve the mystery of the chain weighted body of a man about 60 years old found in shallow water under a pavilion here late Friday.

Police say they have wrapped about the man's legs from the knee to the ankle. An autopsy showed that the man had not drowned. There were no marks of violence on the body. The stomach will be examined to determine if poison had been taken. The body has not been identified.

Crane Wilbur and Martha Mansfield, Movie Stars, Score Heavily at the Orpheum

Crane Wilbur and Martha Mansfield, movie stars, made their first Tulsa appearance as stage players at the Orpheum theater yesterday and topped one of the best vaudeville bills of the present season.

Their offering was a comedy playlet that is as bright as the sun, and the audience picked up every line and laughed with a heartiness that was a rare delight.

Crane Wilbur's name in the movies is always the signal for vast interest among fans and his associate in the sketch, Miss Mansfield, is likewise a popular favorite. These two have graced vaudeville with their presence and their popularity will grow with their every appearance.

The reception both stars received upon their entrance last night was indeed a cordial welcome and the prolonged applause at the conclusion of their act was evidence that Tulsa was pleased with their charming playlet.

Another act on the bill that took the house by storm and one that will be remembered for all time is Rita Gould, vaudeville's own girl, who presented an act that denotes true artistry and each number was applauded to the echo. Miss Gould is one of the big features in big time vaudeville and her triumph tonight will vote her a superb presentation.

Three other excellent acts are offered, making the first half of this week's bill a "crackerjack."

RAIL RATES HOLD UP STEEL DEMAND

Buyers Cautious in Expectancy of Cheaper Material Costs

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The street market is irregular both in relation to prices and to demand. Reports on October sales show a moderate expansion which was believed to have been caused partly by fears of a rail strike. This demand has now fallen off and there is a disposition to await reductions in rail freights. There is a fair business, however, in the lighter products which are steady while heavy weights are quiet and easy with some pressure to sell. Pig iron is quiet. Prices are barely steady and unchanged.

In copper there has been a somewhat improved demand. Buyers for domestic consumption have been a little more active, either as a result of betterment in their trade conditions or increased confidence in prices because of strengthening of the dollar. The unsettled ruling of European exchange rates has probably restricted export business but some further sales have been reported. Deliveries into domestic consumption last month were estimated at about eighty million pounds. Leading producers firmly maintained their quotations of 13 to 13 1/4 for early and forward deliveries of electrolytic copper.

Tin has shown little change. Lead was quiet. Stocks both here and abroad are light and demand on the whole is satisfactory.

Zinc is held higher, checking demand somewhat. Galvanizers have made inquiries for early shipment and the ore market is reported strong with a good demand and no extension of smelting operations. Antimony continues quiet.

LUNCH AND MILK FOR PUPILS Scales Will Also Be Provided for Frequent Taking of Weights.

Special to The World. BARTLESVILLE, Nov. 6.—The Parent-Teacher associations of Bartlesville are entering heartily into the plan to provide warm lunches and milk for the school children during the school year. Meetings are being held at the various schools for the purpose of informing the parents regarding the necessity of providing nourishment for the children during the school hours and milk is emphasized as one of the articles of diet most needed by the children. The members of the city federation of women's clubs have offered to provide each school building with a set of scales so that a daily record may be kept of the weight of the school children.

It is planned to hold a general meeting of the parents and the teachers for the purpose of working out a scheme for providing milk and lunches and it is expected that these will be made available within a short time.

COTTON BALING VERY SLOW Scarcely Half the Product Handled as Compared With Last Year.

Special to The World. MALESTER, Nov. 6.—It is officially given out that to October 15 this season in Pittsburg county there had been 3,631 bales of cotton ginned and it is estimated that there are about two thousand bales yet to be ginned.

At the same time last year the county had ginned 18,756 bales and scarcely started as the season ran over 45,000 bales. One-third of the difference is said to be due to the cut in acreage and the balance is due to the ravages of the boll weevil.

BUS LINES ESTABLISHED

Tulsa and County Towns Connected With Auto Transportation Service.

Tulsa's lines of communication with Tulsa county are on a firmer basis than ever as the result of the operations of the Black and White Bus Line company, between this city and neighboring towns. Skiatook, Turley and Sperry are served in one route, Jenks and Bixby in the second, and Broken Arrow in the third. Each of the three buses makes four round trips daily on its route.

There has been a noticeable increase in patronage since the bus line commenced operation Monday. Owners say. Traveling men are beginning to take advantage of this method of transportation, while out-of-town residents desiring an evening's pleasure in Tulsa can leave their home town at 11:30 o'clock, and start back at 11:30 o'clock. Owners of the line are ambitious to extend their service next to Collierville and Claremore.

HOLD ANNUAL CONFERENCE South Methodists Gather in Tulsa for District Meeting This Week.

The annual eastern Oklahoma conference of the Methodist Church, South, will take place here November 6 and 7, at the home of the week's four hundred preachers from the Tulsa, Vinita, Shawnee, Durant, McAlester, Muskogee and Hugo districts, with Bishop E. H. Cuzen acting as presiding officer.

Although more than 20 candidates for licenses to preach are to be heard during the conference, a larger number than usually apply, adding much to the variety of the conference program, the most important topic to be acted on is that of electing a commission of education, under whose leadership the new Oklahoma Central university will be constructed here.

Officers and members of the three M. E. South churches here—Boston Avenue, Centenary and Hagler Memorial—will help entertain the visitors. All exercises will take place at the Centenary church.

NEW BRIDGE ON HIGHWAY Final Link Between Street Paving and Hard Surface Roadway.

Special to The World. KINGFISHER, Nov. 6.—As a final connecting link between the Main street pavement and the hard surface road, immediately north of the city is to be built a fine 200-foot concrete bridge. It will be an arch and will be one of the finest in the state.

According to a report just received from the highway department the lowest bid was made by the Hyde Construction company of Enid and that contract will be let within the week.

WOMAN HELD FOR ROBBERY Former Wife of Suspect Now Held in Jail for Fowler Episode.

Special to The World. OKEMAH, Nov. 6.—Under Sheriff Oscar Nichols went to Oklahoma City Thursday morning and brought back to Okemah Mrs. Jennie Brand, who had been arrested there on information furnished the officers from the sheriff's office here that she was wanted in connection with the robbery of Fowler Brothers store here last April.

Mrs. Brand was the wife of Corbett Cochran, who is in jail here now charged with the robbery. Mrs. Brand obtained a divorce from Cochran and later was married to Brand. She is the mother of two small children. Friday morning Mrs. Brand was taken to the jail in Henryetta, the county jail here not being equipped for the care of women prisoners.

HARDING TALKS THROUGH RADIO

President Sends the First World Wide Wireless Message

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—"That the peace which blesses our own land may presently become the fortune of all lands and peoples, is the most earnest hope of the nation," President Harding declared in the first world wide radio message in history.

The president opened a switch at the white house, which set in operation the radio station at Jefferson, Long Island, with world wide transmitting power. After opening the switch, the president dictated the following message for world wide transmission:

"To be able to transmit a message by radio in expectation that it may reach every radio station in the world, is so marvellous a scientific and technical achievement as to justify special recognition. It affords peculiar gratification, that such a message comes from the executive of the United States of America, may be read by people in every corner of the world. This happy condition may ever continue and thus the peace which becomes our land may presently become the fortune of all lands and peoples, is the earnest hope of the American nation."
